The Goshen Land Trust works to preserve and protect natural and open land to improve the quality of life for current and future generations of Goshen.

All trails are open from sunrise to sunset. All trails are open to the public for passive use. Please remember to carry out what you carry in.
All trails are marked with white blazes, and can be easily navigated by the novice hiker.

Fox Brook Preserve Trail

This trail can be accessed by travelling east on Route 4 from the rotary for half a mile. A car can be parked on the north (left) side of the road at our Fox Brook Preserve sign. This trail is a 0.5 mile loop which crosses over the pristine Fox Brook and passes by an old furniture mill site. A rock outcrop provides a view over the marsh, where herons and egrets can often be seen.

Kobylenski Trail and Wildlife Preserve

This 0.9 mile trail is accessible either by walking east from the Fox Brook Preserve Trailhead 0.2 miles along Route 4, or at the South Trailhead on Pie Hill Road. This scenic trail follows Fox Brook past three mill sites, and connects Route 4 and Pie Hill Road. Evidence of the canals and sluice-ways that fed the three old mills can be found along this trail.

John Ross Trail

This 1.8 mile trail is accessible from a trailhead on Pie Hill Road, 0.2 miles east of the Kobylenski Wildlife Preserve sign. Cars can be parked at our Pie Hill Marsh sign on Pie Hill Road. Wildlife can be found in abundance along this section of trail, which travels both through the forest and along the marsh.

The installation of a 200 foot boardwalk which crosses a significant wetland area was completed in autumn of 2011.

This trail connects to the Town of Goshen’s nature trail, which travels alongside the brook and a ravine before ending on East Street South.

Goshen Land Trust properties are privately owned and maintained by volunteers.

The public is welcome to use these trails and properties for passive recreation.

- Motorized vehicles are not allowed on the trails.
- All trails are open from sunrise to sunset.
- Dogs are allowed on leash.
- Please remember to leave the trails in the condition you found them (or better), and carry out what you carry in.